the palms and related stories of the early times, when they left their families and sailed around Cape Horn to the gold fields on the Pacific slope. California, recognizing that her prosperity and advancement are to a large degree the result of that early emigration to her shores, played host in a charming manner. Dr. N. J. Bird, of the California commission, made old-timers a speech of welwhich was responded to by Addison Ballard, president of the Western Association of California Pioneers, under whose charge the reunion was held. A poem describing the life of the Argonants of '49 was read by Mrs. Martha Vincent. The lowa State band furnished good music and vocal selections were rendered by Miss Alice Mitchell, Mrs. E. L. Gill, Mr. E. M. Hutchinson and others. Impromptu speeches, reminiscent of the days of the gold fever, were made by the California pioneers. A reception was held by the California commissioners after the exer-

An excursion to the great wheat fields of the Northwest for the entertainment of the representatives of agriculture upon foreign commissions, has been arranged through the courtesy of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Northwestern roads. The purpose of the journey is to enable the commissioners of foreign countries who are especially identified with agricultural interests to form from personal observation an accurate estimate of the resources of the Northwest. The party will probably leave Chicago on the 21st inst., and they will be entertained at St. Paul and Minneapolis, from whence a trip to Minnetonka will be taken, staying over one Sunday upon the shores of that lake. Proceeding on their journey the excursionists will be taken to Grand Forks, Devil's Lake and Larimore, where they will be shown the great wheat farms, and an opportunity will be afforded them of seeing ten thousand acres of wheat cut, a feat in agricultural accomplishment which cannot be equaled in any other place in the world.

The paid admissions to the fair to-day were 104,291.

CRICAGO, Aug. 5 .- The grand jury adjourned sine die to-day without returning any indictments in connection with coldstorage warehouse fire. Common Sense vs. Comstock.

No show would be complete without Anthony Comstock, who now turns up at the world's fair for the purpose of attracting attention to himself and some of the sideshows in the Midway Plaisance, which are obnoxious to his fine sense of delicacy. This is not surprising. Pruriency is Comstock's business. It is the newspaper correspondents, male and female, who go peering about among the Orientals locking for immodesty, and when they think they have found it, write about it as though it were the one prominent feature of the world's fair-these are the creatures whom the fool-killer or other functionary should at-

To one who has enjoyed the pure artistic beauty of the wonderful display in Jackson Park the importance which many visitors attach to the various outlandish exhibitions in the Midway Plaisance is scarcely comprehensible. At the same time these form an interesting and perfectly legitimate feature of an international exhibition. and many of them give an idea of distant countries and peoples and of the life and customs of other continents, such as could be had in no other way.

The street in Cairo, with the shabby little shops, the camei drivers and donkey boys; and the Javanese village, where the houses and the people are just as we have seen them in the pictures-and so on through a long list of geographical and ethnological curiosities-these are really valuable things to have seen. Of course there are numerous "fakes" among them, and some attractions that are not very nice; but a grown-up American is supposed to know what he is going to see, and if he does not like it he can leave it. Anybody who goes to see the Egyptain dancing girls, for example, knows, or should know, that he is going to see a kind of dance that is not elegant or refined or artistic, at least according to our standards, though it must be remembered that an American dance might appear equally immodest to an Egyptian. An American woman doing the "danse de ventre" would be disgusting; in these poor dingy Orientals it is only curious. In any case it is an obscure, out-of-the-way sideshow not worth making a fuss about. In everything of this kind the offense is less in the thing itself than in the vulgar people who loudly profess themselves shocked by it-like the pious elders who denounced Susanna's nudity.

WRECK ON THE LAKE SHORE.

The Atlantic Express Jumps the Track-Twelve Persons Reported Killied.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 6 .- Passenger train No. 9 on the Lake Shore road, known as the Atlantic express, jumped the track near Lindsey, just after midnight. freight was standing on the side track and the express crashed into it. It is supposed the switch was not tightly closed, which caused the express to leave the track. It was heavily loaded with passengers, one of whom was killed outright and several others more or less seriously injured. There is no night telegraph office at Lindsey, and the names of the killed and injured cannot be learned to-night. A dispatch from Toledo says: The passengers estimate that at least twelve persons were killed and a great number injured. Among those on the train was the Chicago baseball team; Jas. Ryan was badly hurt about the head and body; A. H. West, Chicago, injured internally.

Girl Fatally Injured. CHICAGO, Aug. 5 .- A heavy loaded suburban train on the Illinois Central was derailed this evening by running into an open switch. WINCHESTER'S SENSATION.

Story of How Kent Browne Was Decoyed to His Death. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WINCHESTER, Ind., Aug. 5.—The mystery surrounding the brutal murder of Kent Browne has been cleared up by the officers and grand jury, who have been vigorously at work for several days on the case. From the time the body of Kent Browne was found by City Marshal Coffin the officers seemed to suspect Samuel Price and Mrs. Lizzie Storms. So strong had the suspicion become that Sheriff Fletcher arrested Price and lodged him in jail soon after they found Browne's body. The evidence against Price was meagre at first, but suspicion rested on him immediately on account of his enmity toward Browne, it being well known that a quarrel had taken place between the two on account of the Storms woman, to whom both were paying marked attention. In this quarrel it was kown that Price had made threats to kill Browne, and Sheriff Fletcher arrested him on sight. Being closely questioned, Fletcher succeeded in wresting a full contession from Price. Lizzie Storms is a bad woman about town, with whom Browne has been intimate for many years. The relation between the two has been well understood, and so bold and open had been their conduct that it had been a theme of universal comment and criticism. The man Price was an interloper in the affections of the Storms woman, who is white, as is Price. She manifested a desire to shake off ber colored friend, but Browne refused to be discarded, and the evidence in the case shows that Price and his paramour con-

Storms, and arranged to meet her a mile south of town, and, later in the afternoon, Price and Mrs. Storms took a ride in a buggy, at which time they laid the plot and arranged the details of the crime. On Sanday evening, at 8 o'clock, Browne drove to the rendezvous, and met Mrs. Storms at a cross-road, one-fourth mile east of the place where he was killed. Browne put the curtains on the buggy. took Mrs. Storms in with and him Brown alighted from the ouggy and was climbing over a fence, when Price, who had been concasted, came up behind and shot him in the hip with a thirty-eightcaliber revolver. Brown fell off the fence, and as he ran begged for his life, but his murderer showed no mercy and followed him. Brown turned around, still pleading pitifully for his life, but Price ended the life of the barber by another shot which entered the heart. Brown fell dead without a struggle on his face. Fearing his job was not complete the assassin turned the liteless body over and sent another ball crashing through his brain. For the purpose of misleading the officers they robbed the body, taking all the valuables, including money and the fine gold watch which had been presented to Browne by his old master, Gen. Thomas M. Browne, on his death bed. It had General Browne's name engraved in the case. To further mislead the officers Price removed his shoes, put them in his hip pockets and, being satisfied that all evidence of their presence on the spot had been destroyed. the guilty pair separated to meet at the organ factory just south of town. where he gave Mrs. Storms the watch, after which he went to the pump shop in which he worked, hid his revolver in a pump stock and threw his socks under the shop, where they were found by Marshal Coffin. Indictments were returned by the grand jury to-day against Price and his paramour, charging them with murder in the first degree. Mrs. Storms seems to be entirely without feeling in the case. She is much stronger intellectually than the man who did the shooting. Price is the son of one of the wealthiest farmers in this county, and he and his family have been considered good people. Too much credit cannot be givea to John W. Newton and Capt. J. B. Ross, prosecuting attorneys, and to Sheriff Fletcher and Marshal Coffin for their efforts in ferreting out the details | Special to the Indianapolis Journal. of the case and landing the guilty parties behind the bars to await the action of the

THE BANKS NOT BURT. Delaware Farmers Institute a Big Run on Muncie Banks.

Special to the Indiapapolis Journal.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 5 .- There was a rush of excited farmers to the city to-day, as was expected after the announcement of the closing of the Citizens' National Bank yesterday. It was anticipated that the run on the Delaware and Farmers' National Banks would be so great as to likely close their doors. The Merchants' National is a new concern, and experienced little fear. The farmers came, but the more conservative citizens were organized, and to-night the Farmers' closed with as much money on hand as it had this morning. The Delaware was $2,000 better off. Both banks boast that they can meet comers, and to-night there is but little, if any, fear. Checks on the Citizens' Bank were taken at parat the other banks and in general business transactions, and in business circles as usnal. The merchants are advertising goods for sale, and paper of the closed bank taken at full-face value. The police report several suspicious pickpcckets here laying for the fellow who prefers an old sock to the bank vault for his money. The timely organization of citizens had much to do with saving the two banks to-day.

How the Elopers Got Their License. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Aug. 5 .- The special in this morning's Journal from Anderson to the effect that attorneys had been retained to prosecute the clerk of the Hamilton Circuit Court for assuing a license for the marriage of Elmer Creekmore and Hattie Cummins, an eloping young couple from Anderson, is an unjust reflection on the Hon, Joel Stafford, who is clerk of the Hamilton Circuit Court. The facts in the case are, that on Wednesday evening the couple applied for a license. Being strangers Mr. Stafford refused to issue the license without proof as to their age and identity. They went away, saving they would return next morning with some one who would make a proper affidavit. Accordingly, on Thursday morning they returned with James Moore, who subscribed and swore to the following affidavit: Before me, Joel Statlord, clerk of the Hamilton Circuit Court, personally came James Moore. and, being duly sworn, on oath says he is a disinterested person, and that he is acquainted with Elmer Creekmore and Hattle Cummins, who are applicants for a marriage license: that he has good reason and that he verily believes they are of lawful age for marriage without the consent of their parents or guardians, and that the said Hattle Cummins has resided in Hamilton county for one month past, and he knows no lawful Relying upon the affidavit, the clerk says, he issued the license,

Mr. Kimple in his report asserts that the total assets of the bank at face value are $11,598. Of this about $430 is in cash, $900 in furniture and safe, and notes of doubtful value. $10,400. The deposits amount to $11,500, there are due other banks $650, and protested drafts are out for nearly $700. The habilities are therefore in the neighborhood of $13,000. The bank is on the paper of the hoop works for $4,000, and if the latter concern does not pay out this becomes a bank liability. It is said the assets necessarily must be sacrificed, and it is doubtful whether the depositors will receive over 50 per cent, under the most favorable circumstances.

Tri-County Fair Declared Off. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WABASH, Ind., Aug. 5 .- There will be no fair held at North Manchester, Wabash county, this fall, that decision having been reached Friday by the directors of the Tri-county Fair Association. The exhibition, which had been extensively advertised for Sept. 26 to 29. is a great racing meeting, and the abandonment of the meeting for this year will demoralize the circuit. The reason advanced for declaring the exhibition off is that the world's fair is too strong a counter attraction and that crops, with the exception of wheat, are such a failure, and live stock is in such poor condition that there would be little to show.

Trade Hurt by Early Closing.

Special to the Indianapolis Journa:. CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Aug. 5 .- The early-closing question is again being agitated in this city. This spring the Retail Clerks' Union organized in this city, and it resulted in most of the stores being closed every night, except Saturday. The storekeepers now claim that this arrangement has worked to their disadvantage, and their sales have fallen off. The farmers do not come to town at nights as they formerly did, but go to the smaller places to do this trading. The present agreement terminates the 1st of September and from present prospects it will never be again in operation.

Indiana Coal Miners Busy. ecial to the Indianapolis Journal.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 5 .- In the midst of general depression in the industrial world the Indiana coal miners are very busy. An operator explaining this anomalous condition said it was due to the fact that at this time of the year many public institutions buy their winter's supply. The public schools in Chicago and other cities in the Northwest receive their coal at this time and the Indiana product is a prime favorite with the purchasers. The miners have a wages scale for the year, ending May l next, so there can be no reduction in the rate whatever may be the status of the coal

MARTHA MUST GO BACK.

A Pretty Austrian, Who Crossed the Atlantic with Her Lover, Not Permitted to Land.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 .- Pretty Martha H. Hener will have to go back to Austria. Not all the diamonds she wears nor the tears she weeps will have any influence on the hearts of the immigration authorities on Ellis island, and Martha does wear lots of gems, too, and dresses brightly and looks a perfect picture of beauty amid her commonplace surroundings in the pens of the big examination hall, which had, however, been reached by a message from the consul at Vienna before Mortha gotthere. The trouble is, although Martha crossed the ocean second cabin. and should never in the ordinary way of things have seen Ellis island, except from the steamer, she came over as Martha Lindenbaum and not as Martha Heuer, the concert hall singer of the Austrian capital, Herr Max Lindenbaum is also a prisoner for the present on the island. This gentleman is the son of a well-reputed family in his own country, and admits that he has during his life of twenty-eight years put $150,000 in the hands of gamblers, who knew too much for him. Not long ago he disposed of his interest in a small business venture for 2,000 guilders, and having fallen violently in love with nineteen-year-old Martha, persuaded her to go to America, with him just to have a good time. So the girl packed up a very extensive wardrobe, left her three sisters and came over with him on the Augusta Victoria. They dave their names as Max and Martha Lindenbaum and applied for a room together, but as they nearly missed the ship they were forced to separate, she being compelled to share the quarters of another female passenger. Some vigorous letter - writing and cabling followed, as the result of the young man's parents' wrath. When the big ship arrived at quarantine they were taken off by the Ellis island folks. Max was asked whether he was married to the girl. "No," he answered. Did he intend to marry her?

No, he did certainly not, as ench an alliance would deprive him of his patrimony. His story was sworn to and submitted to Acting Commissioner Sweeney, who decided that Martha was clearly barred by the law. She had not a cent to her name, was a minor, and admitted that she had planted her affections already on too many men to enumerate, but especially on one, Prince Schwartzenberg, of Vienna. Mr. Sweeney said this afternoon that the case was clear, so far as Martha was concerned, but he hardly thought that Max could be legally detained. In the meantime the young man is staying by his sweetheart on the island, and he thinks he will go back with her to some place where they have no rules.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES.

Spirited Finish Between Vio H. and Hazel Wilkes in the 2:13 Trot. BUFFALO, Aug. 5,-Goldsmith's master drive with Hazel Wilkes in the fourth heat of the 2:13 trot was this afternoon a fitting in conclusion to the first week of the most successful Grand Circuit meeting ever held Buffalo. It has been a week of great racing, great horses and great crowds, and the sport for next week promises to be equally

Of the three events on the card this afternoon one remains unfinished, and it furnished the best racing of theday. Hazel Wilkes, Phobe Wilkes, Vic H., Magnolia and Alvin were the starters in the 2:13 trot, and they were still fighting it out when darkness caused a postponement until Monday. Hazel and Pheebe were first choices in the event, but the seasoned campaigner Vio H., of the Salisbury string, showed in front in the first two heats. Phobe Wilkes took the third heat because of several mistakes by Vic H., and then Goldsmith came on with Hazel Wilkes and captured the fourth heat in the best finish of the meeting. Such a drive is seldom seen. Hazel, Photos Wilkes and Magnolia passed under the wire abreast and with noses only inches ahead of each other. Hazel did not appear to have much of a chance at the distance pole, but Goldsmith arged the racylooking bundle of speed in a most desperate effort, and she reached the wire just in the nick of time. It was such a finish as the elder Goldsmith was wont to make when he was alive and one of the noted reinsmen. Ellard was favorite for the 2:20 class trotters, and would have won in straight heats had it not been for a mistake in the first one. Dickerson tried to lift the game horse across the line in front of San Pedro. but the "hearse borse" fought all the way down the stretch, and a dead heat was the result. In the heats that followed Ellard outfooted all the others, and though a different one came at him each time, he had too much speed for any of them. At Detroit and Cleveland he showed his beels to stiff crowds, and today's race demonstrated that he is the best money winner now in the Dobie stable. Zembia was a quiet tip for the race, but did not possess the speed of the black stallion. Atlantic King and Hal Dillard were both well considered for the 2:15 pacing stake, but after winning the first heat the King began his usual "monkey shines" and came pretty close to catching the flag on two occasions. Hal Dillard made a costly break in the first heat, but after that he settled down and there was nothing in the race that could come near him. In the secoud heat he reduced his mark to 2:094s, and even after such a mile he handily outpaced Rosewater and Atlantic King in the concluding heat. Albert E., of whom much was expected, fell outside the flag in the first. The attendance to-day was over 7,000.
